There's a famous quote (from Ayn Rand, I think) that the government survives because people keep voting for it. One thing that certainly makes the American people fall for all kinds of propaganda is that the name of our country is always being thrust in our faces, and we're supposed to think that means we always win. The very fact that our media constantly tells us that our government is "progressive" makes us think it's "for us." Our education system is geared to giving us the impression that the United States is always the benevolent, and America always the good guy. The "good guys" win in the end, because evil always loses. The problem is, the people who run the country are experts at propaganda. They aren't stupid, and they're not blind to the damage they're doing. But the whole point of the advertising industry is to get the audience to believe what the advertiser wants. And they've been doing that extremely well for a long time. I've had it explained to me, both anecdotally and via the views of one of my

HISD will offer free summer meals for low-income students

Categories Tags Back to full article A new effort for HISD students aims to connect them with free meals

The District is partnering with the the Houston Food Bank Students can pick up meals before their school starts up again

HISD will begin providing free lunch to students who qualify for a free or reduced lunch – that's students whose family income is below the federal poverty level. The school district will be working in partnership with the Houston Food Bank to start giving out free meals on August 1st and giving free lunches on July 31st. Schools will have an interactive sign-up website. Students and families can go to www.helped.org and they can sign up to receive meal by providing a family size and the food type, such as fruit, cheese, and milk. After registering, families will receive text messages and emails to let them know when meals are ready to pick up. The site and text messages and emails are currently being tested, so you may receive a text or email from hfb@helped.org regarding the process, but the District will not be responsible if the messages go missing. Students and families will be able to get meals at the beginning of the school year, from August 1st through September 30th. In 2016, Texas was the only state that still had a requirement for middle school students to bring a lunch to school. According to the Texas School Nutrition Association, Texas is the only state in the nation that still requires its middle schools to serve lunch, even though 28 out of 50 states have replaced lunch with a bag of chips. Texas has allowed middle school students to receive packaged snacks during the day for more than a decade. Julian H. Gonzalez is the acting District-wide partner for the project. "It was an easy decision for us to join this project," Gonzalez said. "We have a difficult population who often has multiple needs and are among the lowest
